Executive Summary

The 2023-2026 Strategic Communications Plan is a living document intended to adapt and enhance as the city continues to evolve. As technology advances and platforms for citizen engagement continue to change, this plan is expected to change to meet the needs of the community. The plan, as it is adopted today, is simply a snapshot of the city's current communication goals and objectives for a unified and cohesive strategy to best serve the City of Beaumont's community and stakeholders.

The plan outlines the overall communication philosophy, structure, audience, and platforms.

Why We Have a Plan

Communication is a basic obligation and essential to an open and transparent government. Communicating with residents, businesses, and visitors is vital to fostering trust and the overall success of the city. Through consistent and engaging communication, the City of Beaumont can grow informed community participation, enhance pride and overall quality of life for its residents.

Communications Team

Everyone who represents the city in an official capacity can be seen as a communicator. It is important to create a unified structure defining messaging and the process for all communication to ensure reliability with and for the city's stakeholders. The success of the plan is dependent upon everyone's understanding and participation.

For purposes of this plan, the city defines its core communicators as follows:

- Mayor and City Council
- City Manager
- Deputy City Manager
- Chief of Police (and designee)
- Public Information Officer
- Executive Team
- Recreation Manager
- City Clerk
- City Treasurer
- City Boards, Commissions, and Committees
- Other Council-Appointed Officials

Target Audience

A key component of any communication plan is identifying and knowing the audience.

The external stakeholders are:

- Residents
- Visitors
- Businesses
- Community organizations
- City/County Governments Schools
- Regional influencers
- Media

The internal stakeholders are:

- Employees
- City Council
- City Clerk
- City Treasurer
- City boards, commissioners and committees

Background

This plan was officially adopted in April 2024 with the previous plan adopted in 2018. Updating the city-wide strategic communication plan advances the City of Beaumont's Strategic Plan, Level 3, Target #1 Goal #4, to increase public communication, education and strategy. This plan incorporates relationship building and public communication strategy.

Past Plans & Guides

- 2023-2026 Strategic Communication Plan – Adopted in April 2024
- Original Strategic Communications Plan – Established in 2018, containing initial goals and strategies for an unspecified timeframe.
- Style Guide – Developed in 2019, containing guidelines and standards for both graphic and language perspectives. This guide is active.

 - Goal 2: Elevate Beaumont's economic appeal through targeted marketing, strategic outreach, and media engagement to attract new businesses, promote local industries, and position the city as a prime destination for investment and growth.
 - Objective 1: Secure 5-10 media mentions or news features about Beaumont's economic development and investment opportunities within 2025.
 - Objective 2: Increase website traffic to Beaumont's economic development webpage by 25% within the next 12 months.
 - Objective 3: Launch a marketing campaign to attract at least 5 new businesses to Beaumont within the next 12 months.

Current Communication Methods

Advertising

Advertisements are limited to events, programs, and service-related information. The purpose of advertising is to advance the quality of life for its residents and the economic vitality of the city. This includes promoting businesses, incentive programs and community events.

Communication Training and Assistance

City employees who manage social media accounts should receive basic and ongoing training as needed. Future training will be provided on an as-needed basis to keep employees abreast of current and emerging trends.

Digital Communications

The dominant form of communication currently consists of a variety of digital platforms and local media coverage. Below is a list of communication methods currently used:

Websites

- beaumontca.gov –Official City website
- beaumontcabusiness.gov –Economic Development website (2023)
- bmt parks.com – Parks and Recreation website (2023)
- BeaumontPD.org – Police Department website (2016)

Email Subscriptions

Graphic Identity Manual

In 2018, the city updated its logo and developed a graphic identity found in its Brand Style Guide. The guide offers best practices to facilitate standards and ensure consistency in visual and written communication regarding its logo, font, color scheme, and graphics.

Media Relations

A positive working relationship with news media from local and regional outlets is vital to successfully communicating city-related information. The goal of effective media relations is to publish frequently, factually, and professionally. All media inquiries should be responded to promptly whenever possible.

Print Publications

With a shift in how society consumes information, the cost versus effectiveness of print publications is reviewed on a case-by-case basis. In most cases, distributing communication digitally is the most cost-effective and predominant method used by the city. Each department produces its own print publications on a smaller scale, including flyers, cards, posters, and brochures to name a few.

However, to maintain a layered and widespread approach the city will utilize local print media, publish an Annual Report, and print its City Magazine for public consumption.

Public Relations

The city continues to establish good and transparent relationships with all its residents, business owners, and visitors through various platforms described throughout the plan.

The city monitors and coordinates responses regarding general inquiries and/or complaints received through a variety of channels.

The city oversees its Public, Educational, and Governmental Access (PEG) Channel through Frontier. Locally, residents can access programming centered on government programs, activities, upcoming events, and services through PSAs, features, and graphic images.

The city utilizes several ways to generate content for distribution including event calendars, internal/employee communication, and social media strategies.

Current Communication Tools

The city invests in a variety of tools including software, video, technology services, and platforms to support effective communication. The primary tools utilized by the city include:

- CivicPlus – website management platform
- Hootsuite – social media scheduling and analytics
- Constant Contact – subscription platform for email announcements
- Grammarly – subscription tool for plain language, grammar, and spelling
- Canva – subscription for graphic creation
- Everbridge – emergency communication software
- Variety of other tools for various projects
